Democratic Convention Shows Considerable Opposition To "Dictated" Choice

SESSION IS RIFE WITH DISSENSION

President Roosevelt Formally Accepts Democratic Nomination For Third Term

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, July 19.—The new deal today took over complete control of the Democratic party with President Roosevelt accepting a third term nomination after a rebellious Democratic national convention barely nominated his favorite, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, former Republican, for the vice-presidency.

The president announced that his duties in the White House would keep him from active campaigning but that he would use the radio to make frequent reports to the American people. He said he would have "no time for political debate" but warned he would speak promptly to answer any "falsification of the record." It was apparent he planned to use Secretary Wallace for campaign touring against the Republican ticket of Wendell Willkie and Charles L. McNary.

Use Whole Power Of New Deal

The whole power of the new deal was used to win Wallace the running-mate's position in a session rife with dissension. The fight against Wallace probably constituted the greatest display of convention opposition to a president's choice for running-mate in all the known history of American politics.

The convention adjourned early

Hughes Opposes Use Of Highway Funds For Defense Airports

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 19. — Secretary of Highways I. Lamont Hughes today declared he was "unalterably opposed" to the $5,000,000 expenditure of motor funds for airport construction as proposed by the joint state air defense committee.

"In my official capacity as secretary of highways and as a motorist of Pennsylvania," said Hughes, "I am unalterably opposed to expenditure of the motor license fund for any purpose except construction, reconstruction, maintenance and operation of the state highway system.

"Then, too," he added, "I think the motorists would object to it as they are upin the air now about borrowing."

Hughes made his position clear after the committee, headed by Rep. E. Kent Kane, McKean Republican, submittd a 90-page reprt to Gov. Arthur H. James urging the immediate construction of 40 airports in Pennsylvania using the five millions for preliminary work until an appropriation could be made at the next session of the legislature.

Hughes revealed that the department had contracted or advertised for $25,000,000 in road construction and that the proposed raid would make it necessary to "hold back on construction."

LONDON, July 19—Six German dive bombers today unsuccessfully attacked an important area in the the southeast of England, according to an air ministry announcement.

Thirty bombs were dropped on the area before British anti-aircraft batteries drove off the raiders. There was no mention of casualties in accordance with the government's new policy or not letting them be known until a month later. The purpose of this new policy is to prevent the German raiders from learning the effects of their raids until it is too late for such news to be of advantage to them.

Former Legion Head Bolts Third Termers

(International News Service)

SEATTLE, July 19.—Stephen F. Chadwick, former national commander of the American Legion and a Democratic leader in the state of Washington for years, today pledged his support to Wendell Willkie, the Republican candidate for president.

"The issue is Americanism against the New Dealers," Chadwick said, "the people against self-perpetuating bureaucrats.

"The problem is America, its safety and security.

"Still following the Jeffersonian concept, I will support Wendell Willkie for president."

On the third term issue Chadwick said:

"The third term is a danger to our institutions because of its tendency to inflame ambition and nurture an office-holding class.

"Those of us who favor a government of laws rather than a government of men have nothing to do except fight on and that fight can best be made behind the Republican candidate."

Democrats Divided On Third Term Issue

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, July 19—Bitter-end anti-third termers in the Democratic convention, which closed early today, planned to carry their fight into the campaign and predicted that millions of Democrats will either refuse to vote or will switch to Republican presidential nominee Wendell Willkie.

In spite of this defection, however, some who opposed the third term agreed to support Franklin D. Roosevelt on the ground of party regularity.

Differ On Effect

Politicians and delegates differed in their estimates of the effect of the third term issue.

Former Rep. John J. O'Connor of New York planned to carry forward the anti-third term organization through his "Andrew Jackson" party. He predicted that the Roosevelt-Wallace ticket faces loss of millions of votes on the issue.

Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, leader of one of the most powerful political machines in the country, predicted that the third term issue will fade into the wind as election day approaches.

"The third term issue won't count," he said. "The people won't take it seriously. With conditions all over the world as they are, what was there to do but to draft the best man available?"

Seventeen Pass Flying Tests At New Castle Port

Government Inspector Makes Two-Day Visit To City For Examinations

Seventeen fliers took and successfully passed government flying tests at the New Castle Airport Thursday. Nelson Brown, Civil Aeronautics Authority inspector, came here Wednesday evening for the purpose of giving the tests, and remained overnight.

Two of the pilots received commercial transport licenses, 10 were granted private licenses; one secured a flight instructors rating and two, ground school instructors ratings.

Tonny Hong, of Ellwood City, the district's young Chinese flier was successful in passing tests for one of the commercials. John Dochko, local orchestra leader, was the other flier to receive a commercial ticket.

Tommy Winfield, of Youngstown, secured a flight instructors rating. Robert Love and Ed Francis were both granted ground school instructors ratings.

Police Chief Gets License

Archie Shoup, Chief of Police at Bessemer, received his private license, as did the following: Robert Love, Frank Farone, Don Kenehan, Chester Minick, Paul Johnson, Lewis Gache, Joe Bloise, Ben Themos and Ellsworth Dewberry.

Paul Taylor, 18, youngest commercial license holder in this district, was successful Thursday in obtaining a 2-S rating. Wayne Bevan also secured this advanced rating.

CAA inspectors now have New Castle listed as one of their regular stops, and plan to make at least one visit each month for the purpose of giving tests. This is the largest number to take tests on the same day at the local airport for sometime.

Darkness set in Wednesday evening before the tests were nearly completed, thus making it necessary for Inspector Brown to remain here until Thursday to continue the examinations. Last of the flight tests were not completed until late Thursday afternoon.

By KENNETH DOWNS

NEW YORK, July 19.—Game, astute little Paul Reynaud was a thoroughly alarmed and angry man. His face was drawn and his black eyes as he summoned Edouard Daladier.

This was the day, in the first week of May, that the French leaders knew the Allies were hopelessly washed up in Norway. The nation was not to learn for two or three days more.

His sullen, resentful minister for war and national defense had no sooner limped into his presence before Reynoud came to the point—Gamelin must go.

With expert assistance, Reynaud said, he had gone into the conduct of French operations in Norway and discovered enough to convince him he would have to dismiss General Maurice Gamelin as commander-in-chief.

Daladier Refused

He carefully went over the evidence with Daladier. But Daladier, whose personal dislike for Reynaud amounted to hatred, flatly refused to agree to a change. It was no secret that he was waiting to upset Reynaud's government, and now he warned he would resign and provoke a political crisis rather than consent to Gamelin's removal.

The matter was brought before the cabinet on May 9. After a violent argument, it remained undecided Reynaud considered resignation. But a few hours later, in the early morning of May 10, the great offensive on the western front began.

Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg were being overrun. Tons of bombs were being loosed on northern France and the first of those unforgettable tides of refugees which were to paralyze the French armies already were beginning to choke the roads.

The president of the republic urged Reynaud not to resign. Daladier was obdurate on Gamelin so Reynaud, feeling it might do more harm than good to make a switch at such a critical hour, let the generalissimo remain.

Pitiful Inadequacy

It required the break-through on the Meuse in the next few days, revealing the pitiful inadequacy of the French military preparations, to bring about the end of Gamelin as commander-in-chief. General Waygand, the much-advertised "fireman," was rushed in to try to save the day.

Weygand did his best. His improvised defense-in-depth slowed the enemy advance and exacted

Appeal Is Made To England To Lay Down Her Arms Before It's Too Late

By PIERRE J. HUSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, July 19.—With the prediction that Great Britain as a world empire will cease to exist if Nazi Germany is compelled to attack, Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler tonight addressed "one last appeal to common sense" and called upon British statesmen to renounce the war.

In an address to the Reichtag which was broadcast throughout the world, the Fuehrer addressed a "'conciliatory" appeal to England to lay down her arms before it is too late.

His address was not an ultimatum.

He made no specific proposals, set no conditions, made no demands.

After depicting the misery and destruction awaiting England, he said:

"For that reason at this hour I feel myself obligated to make one more appeal to reason in England."

The Fuehrer threw full responsibility for the disaster upon the shoulders of Prime Minister Winston Churchill and freely predicted the latter will flee to Canada "when war strikes home."

Leaves It To Britain

The Fuehrer left it to what he termed Britain's "common sense" to indicate a readiness to reach a common peaceful understanding before the big guns of Germany's military machine are turnd upon the heart of the British empire.

His "last offer" he described in his own words as "a last appeal to reason in England."

Hitler began his long address

State Delegates Enroute Home From Chicago

Roosevelt's Choice Given State's Vote

Wallace Indicated At State Caucus Thursday As Man Favored By President

SENATOR GUFFEY REVEALS TREND

By BART RICHARDS
(News Staff Correspondent)

CHICAGO, Ill., July 19—"They got what they wanted" and so the convention of the Democratic party came to an end here Thursday night. Roosevelt and Wallace is the team selected to oppose the Willkie-McNary combination of the Republican party. The desires of the White House have been carried out and with gusto and aplomb the delegates ratified Mr. Roosevelt's choice at the closing session.

The tip-off as to President Roosevelt's choice for vice president came at the Pennsylvania caucus in the Congress Hotel on Thursday morning. Chairman Warren R. Roberts called the caucus to order and said it was not the purpose of the caucus to place any names in nomination or to poll the delegation.

This idea met with considerable opposition by such men as former Chairman David Lawrence, State A. F. of L. President James McDevitt of Philadelphia, C. I. O. Leader Phil Murray and Emma Guffey Miller, sister of Senator Joseph F. Guffey.

Insist On Wallace

They insisted that the Pennsylvania delegation should be in the van for Wallace, although up to late Wednesday night Wallace was just one of a host of candidates being considered.

Senator Guffey addressed the caucus and indicated that the president had hinted at his choice for vice president. The fact that his sister then spoke vigorously for Wallace, pus the statement of Phil Murray seemed to be obvious that Wallace would be the man.

In Thursday's News we said that a caucus had been called at the Morrison by Phil Murray, with all delegates who were friends of the C. I. O. attending. Both delegates of the 26th district, Mell George of Enon Valley and Martin A. Schulte, of Midland, attended and after the caucus said that Wallace was the man endorsed by the C. I. O. leaders.

Convention Highlights

One newspaper man here, Fred Perkins, a Washington correspondent is being kidded by his colleagues at his early guess on the third term. Fred is the scribe who was invited to "sit in the corner with a dunce cap on" about a year ago by President Roosevelt when at a press conference Perkins asked if the president was interested in a third term. His hunch then was good and the dunce cap comes off.

The afternoon session of the convention was adjourned almost before it got under way. Thursday was the day of the Arlington classic, a famous trace at Arlington Park and a lot of the boys wanted to lay a few bobs on the noses of the nags.

By noon Friday most of the Pennsylvania delegates and visitors were eastbound. State Treasurer F. Clair Ross started driving early Friday. Delegate Martin Schulte of Midland got an early start and expected to drive around by way of South Bend. As for us we're eastbound on the Shenandoah of the B. & O.

Yet once in a while you meet a man or woman who wasn't the first to suggest Willkie for the nomination.

LONDON REPORTS AT LEAST SIX OF RAIDERS DOWNED

ant area in the southeast, dropping 30 bombs before they were driven off by anti-aircraft fire.

The afternoon engagement opened when the six bombers nose-dived out of the clouds and attacked a vessel near the coast. All of these bombs apparently fell into the sea and the ship's guns brought down one plane.

Seek To Attack Vessels

The Germans then unsuccessfully attacked a second vessel, it was said, meeting with a trrific anti-aircraft barrage from shore points. The planes sheered off and made for the opposite coast.

British fighting planes went aloft and caught up with the Germans. A fierce machine-gun encounter ensued, in which three Nazi planes were brought down into the sea while a fourth apparently crashed on the French coast.

An official communique stated:

"Enemy raiders dropped incendiary and high explosive bombs over several districts in east Scotland last night. Buildings were damaged and there were some casualties, a few of which were fatal."

One Nazi raider dropped two salvos of bombs on a town in southeastern England this morning, starting a fire. Casualties of this particular raid were not announced. Fighting planes pursued the German raider, but no details of the pursuit were available.

French Vessels Requisitioned

Meanwhile, the ministry of shipping announced that French merchant vessels in British-controlled ports had been requisitioned and henceforth would sail under Anglo-French flags. At the end of the war, compensation will be paid for the use of French bottoms, and the ships will be returned to France.

It was stated that many of the officers and men of the French vessels chose to remain with their ships rather than give themselves up to the Nazi conquerors.

(The British broadcasting corporation, heard in New York, announced today that the German air force yesterday lost its 200th airplane in the fight against England. This total, the BBC announcer said, was made up of 157 bombers and 43 pursuit planes.

(In the same period the Royal air force has lost only 23 pursuit planes, the radio announcer said.)

with another denunciation of the now-extinct treaty of Versailles as the fundamental, underlying cause of the present conflict.

Refers To Peace Offer

He told of his repeated requests and demands that it be revised to lift from Germany the stigma of disarmament and impoverishment, and then referred to the peace offer made by Premier Mussolini last September.

This Germany accepted, Hitler said, but the Allies turned it down.

He then went on to tell of his efforts to restore peace last October 6 in his speech at Danzig at conclusion of the Polish campaign. The only answer he received, he said, were threats and reviling.

Depicting the misery and destruction awaiting England, the Fuehrer said:

"For that reason at this hour I feel myself obligated to make one more appeal to reason in England.

"Unless England shakes our hand, a great world empire will be destroyed. Continuation of warfare will end in complete destruction of one of the two antagonists.

"I know Churchill (Prime Minister Winston Churchill) thinks it will be Germany that will be destroyed, but I know it will be England. . . .

"But I repeat I never intended or desired to destroy the British Empire."

Informed Nazi sources said that Germany would "patiently await an indicative answer" from England "during the coming days."

No time limit has been set for the acceptance, and Nazi officials insisted there was nothing in the Fuehrer's offer of an ultimative character.

DEMOCRATS DIVIDED ON THIRD TERM ISSUE

course by saying, "I am a Democrat."

"I am the type of a Democrat who doesn't believe in a third term," he said. "And with Wallace on the ticket it will be especially hard to win. The third term issue may defeat us."

Sen. Clyde Herring, Iowa, declared that the third term issue will not handicap the Democratic ticket.

"They've been talking about it for two or three years and the people are tired of it," he said. "They started the cry too soon. It is old now."

Invites Defeat

J. C. Hupp, Fairmont, W. Va., a business-man delegate, said that "I think the third term nomination invites defeat."

"It may not, of course, but I fear an avalanche of protest before the election," he added. "But, then, I am not a politician."

Ed Crump, known as the "Boss of Memphis," discounted the third term issue.

"The people want a man who is experienced, trained, intelligent and a winner," he said. "Anybody who would let the third term issue be a barrier would be against President Roosevelt anyway."

Asked his opinion, Sen. Carter Glass, Virginia, replied, "you heard what I said in my speech." In Nominating James A. Farley for president he attacked the third term on principle.

John Neff, Stauton, Va., a delegate at large from Virginia, thought the third term issue would be serious.

"Virginia might go for Willkie, especially with Wallace on the ticket", he said.

Many delegates canvassed by newspaper men said that while they dislike to nominate anybody for a third term, they felt that under the circumstances they acted for the best in voting for Mr. Roosevelt for the precedent-shattering third term nomination.

PITTSBURGH PARTY OF INTEREST HERE

One of the loveliest luncheon-bridge parties of the season, which is of interest to New Castleites, was that which took place in the club tea room of Hornes in Pittsburgh when a former local resident, Mrs. Thomas Perrott, entertained informally a host of guests, to introduce her future daughter-in-law, Miss Martha Jean Cole of Pittsburgh. Also, it provided a medium of making known the wedding date of Miss Cole when she will become the bride of Robert M. Perrott, which is set for Saturday, August 3. The ceremony will take place in the Dormont Presbyterian church on Patomic avenue, at 2:30 o'clock.

Guests numbering nearly 20, were seated at the attractively arranged tables, the season's tones being combined with the nuptial motif in all details. The floral centerpiece, consisted of individual shoulder corsages, which were later distributed to the asemblage. Concealed inside, were slips of paper which read, "Robert And Martha—August 3, 1940."

The bride-elect i the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Cole of 1102 Gladys avenue, Beachview, Pittsburgh, and Mr. Perrott, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Perrott of 438 Coolidge avenue, Mt. Lebanon The latter family resided on Norwood avenue, this city, prior to moving to Pittsburgh.

SOME OBSTACLES IN U. S.

FROM Merle Thorpe, editor of Nation's Business, comes a list of "obstacles that stand in the way of an invincible America," as follows:

1. Frustrating industrial productivity through government labor policies.
2. Restricting the flow of savings into production enterprise.
3. Chilling the zeal of management through baiting and punitive taxation.
4. Deliberately limiting production of foodstuffs, fuels and other necessities of life.
5. Encouraging social and racial conflicts.
6. Discouraging thrift and sacrifice and economy through public example of extravagance.
7. Destroying state and local responsibility.

While appropriating billions for the material tools of national defense, Congress might well endeavor to eliminate these impediments. The stagnation foisted upon American industry by unwise governmental policies is a serious handicap.

SAFEGUARDING THIS STATE A VITAL NEED

The Pennsylvania Legislature's special committee on air defense performs a valuable service in urging prompt action to provide this state and the key industrial areas with proper protection from air attack.

A survey has shown the committee members, as it has shown the House Military Affairs sub-committee which recently reported defenses in this region "deplorably weak" that Pennsylvania is wide open to assault. Because it would be such a vital objective in time of war, a preparedness program must call for proper defensive measures for this vulnerable area.

The legislative committee wants a $20,000,000 airways system built, comprising some 50 airfields scattered through the state. It would sharply curtail highway construction and divert the motor fund to the air program.

The need for such an elaborate system, however, is open to question. Of course, we should have better airfields, but the defense of Pennsylvania could surely be served by fewer than 50 major airports, provided they were strategically located and wholly adequate for defense purposes. As Major Dallin observes, the nearest thing to defense against air attack is retaliation. That means sufficient planes, properly based and supplied, and ample anti-aircraft batteries properly placed to protect airports and cities.

Airports themselves, no matter how numerous, are not enough for protection. Curtailment of highway building, for instance, might seriously hamper defense measures. Good roads are essential for the speedy movement of military units and supplies. One of the best possible defense projects will be the Pennsylvania super-highway, when it is complete from Pittsburgh to the port of Philadelphia.

As the committee notes, air bases should be provided for training purposes. Civil aviation should be encouraged, because it builds up a reserve of pilots and planes. The state's air resources should be better organized.

But defense of Pennsylvania in time of war is essentially a federal, not a state or local matter, and its air defense must be geared along the lines of a national program. Our fortifications do not stop at state lines.

AMERICA RESPONDS

Success of the American Red Cross war relief drive comes as an encouraging note in a world of chaos. Eight weeks ago—the day German troops touched off the fuse of total war—Chairman Norman H. Davis asked the nation for $20,000,000 to aid the millions of unfortunates in the war zones.

Response has come both promptly and generously. And with equal speed, relief operations have been started on a far-flung front. Contributions have been translated into food, clothing, shelter and medical supplies.

May 10th was a zero hour for civilization. Military occupation has meant sabotage, arson, pillage and death. Peacetime industries have been disrupted. Wheat fields have been broken by shells instead of plowshares. Disorganization of transportation has heightened an emergency of diminishing food stores.

Because we in America possess a merciful heart, we are moved by these things. Newspapers and the radio have brought us every detail. We have traveled with that lonely horde of Dutch, Belgian and French refugees on their pathetic flight to the south. We know of the disheartening plight of English children who have been parted from their families to evacuate enmasse to a once-peaceful countryside and there to hide in the woods under skies darkened by air raiders.

All this we know. But what is more important is this: We are doing something about their tragic plight. The generous out-pouring of the American purse has gone into Red Cross food clothing and medical supplies. This is tangible mercy not mere laments, and it has meant bread for the hungry French child, a clean bandage for the wounded British Tommy and comfort for the foot-sore refugee.

It is fortunate that this is the American way of doing things. In the face of human want and distress, we can be thankful that America has responded to a great need—a cry for assistance from beleaguered human beings. Every contributor—from the six-year-old youngsters who held a benefit lemonade sale, to the charwoman who gave a day's wages, or those of wealth who were able to give generously and did—each of these contributors has responded to a call far stronger than war itself. So long as that spirit shall be ours, America shall be in good hands.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

SCHOOL AND HOME CO-OPERATION

AT THE ANNUAL convention of the Association for Childhood Education, recently, at Milwaukee, there was great emphasis on the home and family. At this convention a daily conference, largely attended, was conducted on school-home cooperation. In this conference, hundreds of leaders in kindergarten-primary education sought light and exchanged suggestions on ways by which the school might better win the home's cooperation.

The most important emphaisis at this conference, as I saw it, was the very general recognition that the school can learn much from the home and that if the school is to make its best contribution it will have to learn more and more from parents.

It is significant, moreover, that the convention put more emphasis on home and family life and ways and means for parent education than did the National P. T. A. convention the following week at Omaha. I attended both conventions. And yet the P. T. A. was founded for the purpose of furthering better parenthood. Let us hope it never strays from this major purpose.

Mother's Room

At a third national convention, that of the American Library Association, which met in Cincinnati, I observed a strong emphasis on the home and family, there being a section devoted to this purpose. It was my privilege to speak before this section on "The Mother's Room of the Youngstown Public Library as seen by a Psychologist." Judging from the manifest interest in the conference and from the numerous columns, editorials and magazine articles concerning the Mother's Room, the first of its kind in the world, I concluded that this project has helped greatly to stimulate libraries in our country and abroad to a growing interest in widening library service for parents.

As in the Milwaukee conference, so in this conference of library leaders, there was a marked humility in the attitude toward parents and their needs. Mrs. Caroline S. Hughes, of the library of Washington, D. C., for example, insisted that in choosing books for parents the library needed the aid of representative parents and of parent groups. What books parents think they need was emphasized. Humility is the beginning of wisdom.

You may have a selected list of books and pamphlets for parents by writing me at 235 East 45th Street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

IRRESISTIBLE VS IMMOVABLE

I am not an engineer or the son of an engineer. My mathematical education ended at analytical trigonometry and mechanics. I have, however, had certain reactions to the advent of the airplane as an offensive and defensive war machine.

England, as well as the United States, boasts of a strong Navy and we are on the way to making our Navy more powerful, but the airplane has become a great menace to the most powerful of battleships.

A battleship is protected from the great guns of other battleships and the great guns of land batteries by the very heavily protected hulls above the water line. Its gun turrets are protected by heavily sheathed armor, but the decks of the battleships are not so well protected from bombs falling from above. It strikes this more or less ignoramus of engineering that some additional protection is needed over the decks of battleships by which bombs dropped from the air could be reflected, or by which the damage done by the explosion of these great bombs could be confined to the damage done to the protective armor and not to the ship itself.

The modern battleship has a tremendous structure above the water line running clear up to the so-called fighting tops. I believe that the battleship of today and tomorrow must eliminate much of this great structure; in other words, I think a battleship should have a roof of some sort.

The menace of the submarine is another matter. The hull below the water line offers a vulnerable point of attack. You cannot put too much weight into the hull of a ship, but battleships are built with double bottoms and perhaps the battleships of tomorrow will have triple bottoms to lessen the damage done by submarine torpedoes.

The whole question resolves itself back to the problem of the engineers. It is the age-old problem of the irresistible against the immovable. Every time a new offensive weapon of war is devised, the engineers have, in turn, attempted to devise something that will resist it.

If the Democrats really want a campaign song, why not adopt "The Last Roundup."

Mr. Willkie surely got a lot of satisfaction out of that Democratic Convention in Chicago.

It looks as if the Roosevelts are all together in this campaign for once.

LIFE'S LITTLE AGONIES

"How did you get on at the cosmopolitan dinner, dear?" asked the wife at breakfast.

"Oh, it was a marvelous evening," answered the husband. "One of the most interesting I ever spent. I was talking to a Pole most of the time."

"Oh, John!" she cried. "And you promised me you wouldn't drink!"

There are people who try to keep from growing old. Often just that trying makes them look old. All the decorations in the world will not make any face look young. Growing old gracefully is the right way.

Right thinking Americans get more satisfaction out of helping the government than they would relying on the government to help them.

Readers' Question Answered

Question: At a bridge party at which the hostess wins her own prize what should she do with it?—Dot.

Answer: The hostess is not eligible for a prize. She should not compete for it. If she plays, she should not count her own score among the winners. If she has the highest score, the prize should go to the second highest.

Question: Should stairs be left bare or covered with carpet. I personally prefer covered stairs but have been told that they are very "gay ninetyish." Is this so?—H. F.

Answer: Since modest homes have wooden staircases, I presume yours has also. And wooden stairs may be left bare or carpeted as you wish. It is, indeed, not in the least "gay ninetyish," to have a runner of carpet. In fact, a great many modern decorators recommend covered stairs.

Question: Please explain what is meant by "refectory table"?—D. D.

Answer: In old convents and monasteries, the hall wherein meals were eaten was called the refectory. The long, narrow tables used in these rooms are now reproduced and called refectory tables.

What's What At A Glance

If England Would Move To Canada
Suppositions Discussed In Advance
Canada Is Part Of British Empire

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Guesses relative to impending (or actually progressing) naval developments, of vital interest to the United States, the Western Hemishpere generally, and the entire rest of the world, for that matter, are too numerous and conflicting to make much sense yet.

To begin with:

Suppose John Bull decides to transfer his empire's headquarters from the British Isles to Canada, to bring his fleet (and whatever he has been able to salvage of France's) over to the Dominion's Atlantic waters and continue oceanic operations from there. Considering the Monroe Doctrine, what will Uncle Sam have to say about it?

State department experts say that's rather an easy question to answer, as to that particular issue. The Monroe Doctrine bars overseas grabs of territory (continental or insular) in any of the Americas or their neighborhood. It also bars the acquisition of any New World possession of an overseas power by some other overseas power.

But Canada is British already. Germany couldn't take it without instantly running afoul of the Monroe Doctrine. But, so far as the Doctrine's concerned, it's welcome to stay British.

A Ticklish Question

Thus, if John Bull announces that, henceforward, he prefers to consider Ottawa, rather than London, his imperial capital, the state department can't see that the shade of President Monroe will have any occasion to get excited about it.

However, another question arises: When this present war started, we Americans mapped out a Western Hemispherical zone that we said the belligerents must keep out of. If the British were to base their fleet on the mouth of the St. Lawrence or thereabouts, that zone certainly wolud be violated in short order. Then what? The experts aren't prepared to answer off hand.

They do admit, as a practical proposition, that Uncle Sam would be prepared to wink pretty hard at any program calculated to keep British sea strength effective in the Atlantic while he's building his two-ocean navy. Still, it would be a situation which manifestly would greatly imperil his non-belligerent basis. So the answer to that query still hangs fire.

The Pacific Problem

Then there's the Pacific problem: Weak as we are in the Atlantic, we have a pretty capable fleet in the opposite ocean, and most authorities say we need it there, because Japan's considered so threatening.

But very recently all the major ships in this flotilla mysteriously disappeared from their base at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, going somewhere, and for several days weren't heard from, except, of course, at naval headquarters. Various stories were told concerning them, and some by narrators who may have known what they were talking about.

For instance, Gov. William D. Leahy of Puerto Rico said they were required for Panama canal defense. Senator Key Pittman of Nevada surmised that we'd got to have them available in the Atlantic. Leahy's a retired admiral, ex-chief of naval operations. Pittman's chairman of the upper congressional chamber's foreign affairs committee. They both are middling good authorities.

Germany And The Japs

A yarn's current to the effect that Germany's agreed to acquiesce in all the grabbing the Japs want to do in the Orient if the mikado will keep Uncle Sam too busy to be any further worry to Herr Hitler in his sphere of activities. And this story's purport is that the Japs are keeping part of their bargain by cooking up an American scare concerning the safety of Panama.

If Admiral Leahy and Senator Pittman are right, though, latest maneuverings would imply that the United States is abandoning the whole Asiatic side of the Pacific to Nippon.

That doesn't look altogether reasonable, either.

The worst of all this maneuvering is that the maneuverers themselves haven't any very clear idea just what they're doing.

(Shortly after the above was written, but before it could be printed, the missing ships steamed back into Pearl harbor with the explanation that their absence was routine only. However, the gossip is that they really were sent to Panama, but had to be rushed back because of the increased Japanese menace. This doesn't do much to solve the naval mystery.)

The Great Game Of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT

by The Baltimore Sun (Copyright, 1940)

Revealing Instance

CHICAGO, July 19.

FOLLOWING this strange convention, which has brushed aside the unbroken, though unwritten law, that no President shall serve more than eight consecutive years, many things that have happened here will be analyzed and their significance stressed. In its record there is copious material for attack.

AT this time, however, two things stand out more conspicuously than any other. One is the degrading willingness which some of the Roosevelt leaders showed to do practically anything to keep down open-floor opposition to the third-term nomination. In the resolutions committee this willingness carried them to the point where they practically agreed to compromise and betray the integrity of the President's foreign policy and permit the isolationists on the committee to write a plank on foreign affairs that pleased Senator Burton K. Wheeler and Senator Bennett Clark. Had it gone through as agreed upon it would have rendered Mr. Roosevelt's candidacy doubly ridiculous, because it clashes head-on with his public policy and public declarations. It not only opposed conscription but it pledged the Government to refrain from any assistance to England, limited us to "sympathetic aid". It was the threat of a minority report offering an anti-third-term resolution on the floor which was used as a blackjack to force an acquiescence which would have left Mr. Roosevelt in an extremely dubious position.

IT is true that the stage has been reached where platforms are relatively meaningless and unimportant. The Republican platform certainly is a feeble, commonplace, wishy-washy document, with its foreign-affairs plank subject to any interpretation the candidate chooses to put on it. As for Mr. Roosevelt, his whole New Deal philosophy, and the completeness with which he repudiated that really fine 1932 platform upon which he was first elected, tends to make any platform upon which he stands trivial and insignificant. The truth is that in this campaign the candidates are their own platforms. What they say and do will be the yardstick by which the voters will measure them. The platforms may be solemnly referred to from time to time and the pretense of taking them seriously sustained. But, actually they are in process of being forgotten.

"THE revolting thing about the action of the Administration leaders in accepting a plank drawn by the isolationists was not so much its effect, which would have been bad, but the revelation of the extent to which Mr. Roosevelt's personal representatives would have gone to keep down an opposition that would disclose how hollow was their 'draft'. To avert a floor fight over an anti-third-term resolution, which would have shown a formidable minority against Mr. Roosevelt's attempt, they were willing to do a craven and despicable thing. It is as significant as it is revealing."

THE second thing that protrudes in the convention record is Mr. Roosevelt's message to the delegates, transmitted through Senator Barkley, in which he declared that he had neither desire nor purpose to stay longer in office and wanted the delegates free to vote for what candidates they pleased. When one considers that he, personally, has been conferring as to who should be his running mate; when it is considered that he had been in constant communication with the men who ran this convention; when it is considered that they, with his full knowledge and approval, had been frantically working to keep other candidates from even putting their names before the delegates; when one considers the personal pressure he put on Mr. Farley to keep him from pulling out, as he wants to do right after his successor is chosen; when one considers these—and other things—this seems to be one of the most disingenuous and insincere statements ever made by a public man.

BEFORE he framed it, Mr. Roosevelt, of course, knew—as did everyone of his representatives—that he not only would be nominated but would accept. It is clear enough now that the secret Mr. Farley has been keeping so long was that Mr. Roosevelt was a candidate and that what was being done for him to obtain delegates was with his approval. There is such an overwhelming evidence that he has calculatingly connived in the third-term movement that it no longer seems open to dispute. The truth is that the acts of Mr. Roosevelt flatly contradict his words.

WHEN a public man writes a letter or makes a statement such as this, there are two questions—first, what does he say? Second, why does he say it? So far as the second ques-

Wallace Wins But Only After Hard Contest

today with a large number of angry, disgruntled delegates—who booed the name of Wallace every time it was mentioned—warning that the Democratic ticket faces an uncertain fate in November. Many delegates actually predicted the loss of their own states—states like New York, Massachusetts, Indiana and Missouri.

The president, however, placed his fate cheerfully in the hands of the American people in his venture to shatter all American tradition by winning three successive terms in the White House. In accepting the unprecedented renomination, Roosevelt said:

"My conscience will not let me turn my back upon a call to service.

"The right to make that call rests with the people through the American method of a free election. Only the people themselves can draft a president. If such a draft should be made upon me, I say, in the utmost simplicity, I will, with God's help, continue to serve with the best of my ability and with the fullness of my strength."

Why He Kept Silent

As for his reasons in keeping silent on his third term plans for so many months, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"When the conflict first broke out last September, it was still my intention to announce clearly and simply, at an early date, that under no condition would I accept reelection. This fact was well known to my friends and I think was understood by many citizens.

"It soon became evident, however, that such a public statement on my part would be unwise from the point of view of sheer public interest."

The president explained it was his duty to look after American neutrality, national defense, the good neighbor policy and to try to keep the war from spreading. Then he added:

"The normal conditions under which I would have made public declaration of my desires were gone."

The president touched one Democratic "sore spot" in his address. It was his reference to the fact that he had told many friends—including Vice President John Nance Garner and Postmaster General James A. Farley—that he would "under no conditions" accept renomination. This led to their campaigns for the Democratic presidential nomination—to the bitterness developed in the early days of the convention and to the outright open warfare over the vice presidential nomination.

Party Strife To Continue

The intra-party warfare will continue, with the president's new deal cohorts "cleaning house" in the Democratic national committee within the next few weeks. Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley already has sung his swansong and is being replaced by a more ardent new dealer. There will be a shakeup throughout the committee—but the regular Democrats, who went down to defeat in this convention, may have something to say about the new lineup at the polls in November.

Drama, seldom seen at conventions, marked the election of Wallace as the vice presidential nominee. He was the president's choice and the new deal managers made that plain to every delegation, yet dozens of speakers condemned him and hundreds of delegates booed him.

Some of the greatest figures in the Democratic party opposed the choice of Wallace. Speaker William B. Bankhead actively campaigned against him. So too did Jim Farley, Senator Carter Glass, the Virginian dean of the senate, voted against him. The names of Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt and Loan Administrator Jesse Jones, of Senators Alva B. Adams, Scott Lucas, Prentiss M. Brown and Joseph O'Mahoney, were entered against him. McNutt and Jones and Lucas staged desperate campaigns to keep their followers from bolting Wallace. Indeed McNutt appeared to be the convention's favorite for FDR's running-mate.

First Roll Call

On the roll-call, and only one was taken, the unofficial results were:

Wallace 627 7-10; Bankhead 328 2-3; McNutt, 66 19-30, with Farley, Jones, Adams, O'Mahoney, Lucas, Brown, Assistant Secretary of War Louis Johnson and Bascomb Timmons, Texas newspaperman, getting scattered support.

Only ten of the 55 delegations voted solidly for Wallace. Of the rest, six states—Alabama, Arizona, Georgia, Louisiana, Virginia and Texas—voted solidly for Bankhead and two states and one territory—Idaho, Oklahoma and the Philippine Islands—voted solidly for McNutt.

For a little while, the new deal was not at all certain of winning on the first ballot. Some of the big delegations—like Indiana, Massachusetts, Michigan and Ohio—passed when first called. After the call was completed, they reported and gave Wallace 135 votes, the Massachusetts delegation bringing his total to within one vote of nomination and the Michigan delegation sending him over the top.

McNutt, Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts and Brown harangued their delegations to beat them into line.

Revolt Against Wallace

The revolt against Wallace—and against President Roosevelt himself for trying to hand-pick Wallace—was far more noticeable during the nominating speeches. At times it reached disorderly proportions and permanent Chairman Alben W. Barkley begged for order.

It began with the call of the roll for nominations. Alabama responded by sending the veteran Representative Henry B. Steagall, chairman of the house banking and currency committee, to the platform to nominate Speaker Bankhead. He pleaded for nomination of a "real Democrat"—a slogan shouted throughout the nominations. When he concluded, Bankhead was given the ovation of the session. It lasted 14 minutes, sounded spontaneous and outlasted subsequent ovations to both the President and Mrs. Roosevelt and to Wallace as well.

Then, Arizona yielded to Maryland and Howard Bruce, veteran Democrat from Baltimore, put the name of Jesse Jones in nomination. He drew repeated cheers when he shouted:

"I offer you a Democrat and I think I know a Democrat when I see one."

The Jones demonstration lasted a minute with Barkley hammering the crowd to order. Then Arkansas yielded to Iowa and Frank O'Connor of Dubuque gave the convention the name of Henry A. Wallace. He drew cheers when he said Wallace "enjoys the confidence of the secretary of state (Cordell Hull, who was a favorite in the convention)." The Wallace demonstration lasted nine minutes, with the starting cheers almost drowned out by boos.

Boos For Wallace

From that time on, every time the name of Wallace was mentioned there were boos. Many delegations showed their displeasure by "passings", their chairmen announcing in caustic tones that they had "no nominations to make and no seconding speeches to make". This list included Georgia, Illinois, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Mississippi, Montana, Nevada New Hampshire, New Mexico, Ohio, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Tennessee, Utah, Washington, West Virginia and Wyoming. There has been nothing quite like it within the memory of the oldest convention reporter.

The great dramatic moment came when Delaware yielded to Oklahoma to let Don Wells, Oklahoma house speaker, nominate McNutt. Wells drew roar after roar of cheers as he recited McNutt's attributes. The demonstration lasted three minutes with Barkley trying to halt it to give McNutt a chance to decline the honor.

McNutt faced the packed auditorium for six minutes before the crowd would listen to him. Even while he spoke, cries arose of "stay in Paul" and "we want McNutt".

But at last, his admirers let him say:

"In the first place, I am eternally grateful for the thousands of true and loyal friends who have accorded me such generous and loyal support. I would be both ungracious and ungrateful were I to fail to make some public recognition of their effort in my behalf."

Then he paid tribute to President Roosevelt's "great leadership" and added:

"He is my commander-in-chief. I follow his wishes and I am here to support his choice for vice president."

There were cries of "no, no", and another wave of "boos".

New Dealers Frightened

The demonstrations frightened the New Deal managers. They sent Phillip Murray, CIO leader; House Leader Sam Rayburn, Jesse Jones, Lucas and others to the platform to praise the president's choice. In the end they won, but not before some tart advice was given the convention by opposition speakers.

J. B. Conran of Missouri, endorsing Bankhead, said:

"We want a real Democrat. We want to carry the ticket in Missouri in November and we can't do it with a Republican running as vice president on the Democratic ticket."

He drew a big round of cheers. And he drew more when he said:

"The greatest assurance you have to help him (Mr. Roosevlt) win in November is to declare here and now that this is no rabbit convention. We want a Democrat to run as Democrat in November. Don't teach our boys how to scratch a ticket."

This sentiment was echoed by John H. Moorhead of Nebraska.

Francis Durbin of Lima, O., got a great hand when he pleaded:

"Because the Republicans put over an apostate Democrat, for God's sake don't let us put one of those over in this convention. Mr. President, if you are listening in, for God's sake, nominate some fellow like Bascom Timmons or Jim Farley."

Maury Hughes of Dallas, Texas, drew cheers in seconding Bankhead by saying:

Mrs. Roosevelt Speaks

"We have enough Republicans in our Democratic administration already. I am bound to second the nomination of a Democrat who votes the Democrtaic ticket."

But at long last, the New Deal did it—but with the aid of some of its outstanding critics, who could not stand for a public repudiation of the president, once he committed himself to Wallace. But the New Deal fear was so great that they called on the first lady of the land, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, to pacify the rebels. She made them a nice little speech, pleading for unity, abandonment of partisanship and support of the New Deal. A lot of people credit her with giving Wallace the winning edge.

The president himself did little to soothe the injured feelings of the rebels. He made one slip of the tongue that will be carried into the coming campaign. It was to congratulate the convention on its "choice of Henry A. Wallace for the high office of president." The Republicans plan to make that their campaign—to attack Wallace on the ground he soon will become president, if the Democratic ticket is elected. It was the complaint of the rebels too—that Roosevelt proposes to retire, soon after the election, and let Wallace run the government—and they wanted an old-fashioned Democrat for that job.

tion is concerned, in this case, it seems clear that Mr. Roosevelt sent his message because his managers here believed that without something of the sort they were not going to be able to make the "draft" look plausible to the country and it is vitally essential that it should so look. Every politician here is entirely clear as to the purpose of the message. To assume that the people, as a whole, will not at least sense the cunning politics behind it is to assume that they have very little intelligence.

Young Man Faces Charge Of Murder As Did His Mother

Hugh B. Kenyon, 20, Held For Murder Of His Sweetheart Following Argument

(International News Service)

GROTON, Conn., July 19.—Hugh B. Kenyon, 20-year-old machinist, paced his jail cell with cool impassivity today, his only solace the love of a mother who once escaped the dread shadow that falls athwart the bars of his prison—the shadow of the electric chair.

It was a peculiar display of mother love that sent Maybelle Church Ashley Kenyon to comfort Hugh, now facing the same inexorable processes of the law that his mother did 20 years ago.

She killed her alleged lover. Now she is free. Her son slew his sweetheart, police say, because the girl—18-year-old Rita Wheaton—frowned on an immediate marriage. Unlike the present status of his mother, Hugh's fate is in the balance.

Rita's body was recovered yesterday from a road-side brook where Hugh allegedly sought to hide it under a pile of mossy stones Wednesday night. He had killed her, police said, after an argument in his car—beaten her with a blackjack, insured death with further blows from a heavy stone.

Then, worried and bewildered and wavering over whether to take his own life, Hugh sought out a friend who sent him to a priest. The police came then and took Hugh away—just as they took his mother away 20 years ago, and on the same charge.

On June 11, 1920, when Hugh was but an infant, his mother went to the home of Dr. Herbert Tetlow, wealthy bachelor physician. There, it was charged, she shot him to death, claiming he had broken off a romance of five years.

DRUNKEN DRIVER GIVEN SENTENCE

Dewey Reinman, charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, was sentenced by Judge Thomas W. Dickey this morning to pay a fine of $100, the costs in the case and undergo imprisonment in the county jail for 60 days. If the fine and costs are paid, he is to be released in 20 days.

Mine Disaster Inquest Back Of Closed Door

(International News Service)

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., July 19.—The formal inquiry into the flash explosion in the mine of the Sonman Shaft Coal company which snuffed out the lives of 63 men will be held behind closed doors and before mine inspectors only, Richard Maize, deputy secretary of mines, announced today.

James Hess, president of the local United Mine Workers Union, in a telegram today protested the closed hearings to John Ira Thomas, state secretary of mines. Hess lodged the protest after conferring with James Mark, president of District No. 2.

Members of the inquiry board spent eight hours yesterday in No. 16 heading, one of the three affected by the blast. Today they were investigating the other two, Nos. 17 and 18.

Meanwhile, grief-stricken families buried their dead in mass funerals. Seven bodies were buried from the Sacred Heart Catholic church at Portage. Six blast victims were buried in a single service yesterday at the Greek Catholic church.

LETTERS TO THE NEWS

Letters intended for this column must be signed with name and address of writer.

July 18th, 1940.

Editor;
New Castle, News.
Dear Ed:

Last night I listened to the most inhumane thing I have ever heard. I had read tales put forth by the intimates of our great president concerning his extreme weariness and tiredness after his seven years of almost superhuman efforts in the White House. The history of his titanic struggle against economic forces which have been proven unbeatable by any experiment he has tried, will go down in the record. This struggle had exhausted a much more robust man than our president, and, according to his intimates such as Harry Hopkins, Harold Ickes, et al, as seen in press dispatches, it has taken a tremendous toll. Yet in the whole Democratic party, which in 1936 contained 27,476,872 Americans, the convention couldn't find a single man who could take up the arduous task and thus give poor, tired Mr. Roosevelt a much deserved rest.

The American people are the most humane people in the world. Do you suppose they are going to look with uninimity on such an imposition? Are they going to let a man kill himself in service; let that golden voice grow weak and weary from physical exhaustion? Struggle another four years, in his tired state, against a situation which he hasn't been able to better in the last seven, when he was fresh and strong? I think it is an imposition against a weary but O! so willing man. Let the American people once more show the humanity for which they are famous by giving him a rest starting next January.

ARTHUR M. BROWN,
405 Newell Avenue.

Ex-Gridder Gets Role In 'Boy Meets Girl'

A former New Castle high school football star today had won a role in "Boy Meets Girl," the three-act play which the Provincial Players will give before the public in the new Cascade park theater from August 7 to 10

He is James Mike, guard on Ne-Ca-Hi teams in 1929, 1930 and 1931 and a recipient of all-WPIAL mention. In the play he will be Mr. Green, a song writer, and at one point does singing honors.

When one is crippled and weak, other nations dash in to strip the bones. Over here you can't do it until you are appointed receiver.

Dr. Wilbur Flannery Now Practicing Here

Dr. Wilbur E. Flannery, graduate of New Castle high school and active in local civic affairs several years ago, has opened his office at 24 East Grant street for the practice of internal medicine and diagnostic procedures.

Now a member of the Jameson Memorial hospital staff, he has been located in Cleveland of late.

Finishing high school here in 1924, he entered Mercersburg academy. There he graduated in 1925. He graduated from Dartmouth college in 1929, acquired his master's degree the next year at Oberlin college, and graduated from Harvard Medical school in 1935.

Dr. Flannery interned at Cleveland City hospital in 1935-1936, and from 1936-37 was resident physician at Jameson hospital here. For three years he has been studying on a fellowship in the Cleveland Clinics' department of internal medicine.

He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. C. F. Flannery.

Flag Dedicated By WPA Workers

Program Is Presented At Union Township Quarry Thursday Afternoon

With a crowd of around 500 persons present, all WPA employes of Union township gathered at the township quarry on West Washington street extension, where flag dedication exercises took place, Thursday afternoon.

The flag was donated by the Kirk Hutton Hardware Co., and, was formally presented by Howard M. Kirk, Jr. It was accepted by Joe Ferrell in behalf of the workmen. Funds were raised to erect the 40-foot pole on which it will fly by the men of all the WPA units employed in the township.

C. W. Herman Hess presided as master of ceremonies, and a splendid patriotic address was given by Attorney Clarence A. Patterson. The invocation was given by Rev. Harry Sumner, and selections were given by the WPA band in their snappy new uniforms. Assisting with the ceremonies were Boy Scouts, who raised the flag and played the bugle calls; Troop K, 103rd Cavalry, which furnished the firing squad.

The board of county commissioners were special guests.

Aerial salutes were furnished by the Vitale Fireworks Company, set by Dominick Ross and Ralph Jordan, which after exploding, dropped small American flags attached to parachutes.

The committee in charge was composed of: John Shaw, Lee Boys, Carl Talbizter, Francis Walker, and P. P. Weyrick.

RADI-OH!

They were boasting about radio sets.

"You know," said the American, "In America we have radios so powerful that it is possible to hear the announcer's heart beating."

"That's nothing," the Scot replied. "I tuned in to Egypt last night, and in less than ten minutes the sand was up to my knees."

The latest figures released by the British Ministry of Transport report that the sale of new cars in Britain fell 77.3 per cent during the first four months of the war as compared to the corresponding months of 1938.

Greenville Man Takes Own Life

SHARON, Pa., July 19.—Dr. James A. Biggins, county coroner, today gave a verdict of suicide in the death of Carl W. Golden, 45, of near Greenville, who was found dead in his home shortly after noon Thursday.

Golden, who worked in Pittsburgh as a real estate and insurance agent and spent only part of his time at his home, had driven into Greenville Thursday morning.

Soon after he returned, Mrs. Golden, who was picking berries in a field near the house, heard a shot and investigated. She found her husband had fired a bullet into his head from a revolver.

AROUND CITY HALL

Legislation has been adopted and authorization given the city engineer to have started the paving of Lyndal street, East Cherry street and North Mercer street hill. The work will get under way as soon as possible.

The city police department has no inhalator. However, the bureau of fire possesses one. Most calls for aid when people go down in county streams are telephoned to police here. It is possible the city may at some future time secure another inhalator.

The refreshment stand at Rainbow terrace, Cascade Park, has been robbed several times, the latest having occurred Wednesday night. Youths are blamed for the offenses by B. J. Biondi. Police and park guards have been instructed to keep a sharp watch on the place.

Judging from 80 applicants for new sidewalks, property-owners are taking advantage of the low 14 cents per square foot price for materials. . . . Reports say that cats in Hazelcroft avenue are killing the squirrels. The city should pass an ordinance making owners put bells on cats.

Council decided Thursday to permit Gaetano Campellio to pay the face and costs of a lien filed against the property for the Liberty street sewer which Solicitor Robert White told council could be considered as a replacement sewer.

News And Views From Pennsylvania Capital

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 19— One unexpected outgrowth of the Republican National convention may be a change in the liquor control system of New York, which it is reported, may adopt the Pennsylvania system of state stores....It is understood that certain members of the New York delegation were asked to confer with Pennsylvania members of the liquor control board while at Philadelphia....Out of it may arise a change in the New York system from private liquor stores to public sale as in this state....As a result of conferences held four years previously in Philadelphia at the Democratic national convention Alabama is said to have adopted a liquor sales system based on Pennsylvania's.

The state highway department is becoming a trifle impatient over the delay of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission in refunding to it some $700,000 the commission borrowed from the motor vehicle fund to start the Turnpike construction job....The money was strictly a loan, but red tape has as yet prevented the state from obtaining repayment....Rumors on Capitol Hill are to look out for possible fireworks.

TINTED LENSES and SUN GLASSES

Protect your eyes from glare this summer by having an extra pair ground accordingly to your prescription in a medium green or smoke color. Or buy a good pair of fitover glasses. Never wear cheap pressed sun glasses, because the many flaws in the glass will cause eye strain instead of giving relief from glare.

We have a large selection of optically perfect sun glasses and will adjust them carefully to your features.

Dr. Dafoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

(Copyright, 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

FEET

Since I wrote about children's feet and proper fitting shoes some time ago, I have received a number of letters from men about my observations. Of course, I never pretended to be a foot specialist, but I thought I knew something about feet. Apparently, I still have a lot to learn.

One of the men who wrote me enclosed some figures. I can't vouch for their veracity, but I rather imagine they may be pretty close to the mark. He states that surveys disclose that 65 per cent of boys and 80 per cent of girls in schools show serious foot defects, which if neglected, may prove disabling in later life.

When a child is born, his feet are made up of 52 bony masses which don't even appear united. As the child grows, these masses enlarge, and assume proper shape. Your child is ten years of age before the general structure of the foot is complete—and it is another ten years after that before the heel bone is completely formed. Just think, it takes twenty years to grow a foot. And a couple of ill-fitting pairs of shoes will cause them to grow in such a way that they will always give trouble.

While a baby's foot is growing, the bones grow the way they are bent. In such baby feet, there is no muscular development; the various arches are held in position by fatty pads. That is why a baby's foot appears flat for the first year.

As the child begins to crawl about and stand, these pads of fat are absorbed, muscles form, and the foot begins to have arches.

During this time when the bones are forming, it is very important for parents to watch the growth of the baby's feet. If the child is over weight, when he stands he will put pressure on the soft bones that is greater than they can bear, and they will be bent out of shape. If the child is under nourished, the same thing may happen. If his shoes are too small, or too stiff, his foot bones will be thrown out of shape.

Of course, I think the majority of mothers know about these things, and watch them. But there is another common cause of foot cramping in children that does a lot of harm. I refer to ill-fitting stockings. If the stocking is too small, it cramps the toes just as a tight shoe does. So your child may have the best fitting shoe in the world, but if his stocking is pulling his foot up into a clump, then damage is being done just the same. Sometimes a stocking that is too large is put on a child and then there is a lump of stocking gathered up at the toe. This is nearly as bad as the stocking that is too small.

I think a great deal of damage is done to tender feet through the use of stiff shoes. I know many parents who favor sturdy shoes for their children. I have no quarrel with sturdy shoes so long as they fit properly. But too often they don't, they are too stiff, and so they over-exert delicate foot muscles.

Rugged shoes have another fault. They are apt to look bigger than they really are with the result that children go on wearing them after they are really too small for them.

The child's foot is plastic. Without shoes, it bends easily at the ball of the foot. The shoes you get your child should allow this function without hindrance and this isn't the case if the sole is too stiff, or if the uppers are too stiff either.

Poets Of District Planning Anthology

Several New Castle People Have Had Work Published Recently

Although unknown to most people, New Castle has a great many poets, who as a hobby, turn out poetic works for their own pleasure and entertainment. Most of the local poets have banned together in what is known as the New Castle Poetry Group.

This is an informal organization, entirely devoid of officers and rules or regulations. Meetings are held on the first Tuesday of each month and usually in the local library building.

At the present time this group is working together, planning a unique anthology. Each local poet will contribute one or more poems for inclusion in this book, which will be published in typewritten form. When completed, the books will be distributed to the club members.

Many of the local writers have had their work printed from time to time in magazines, books and newspapers about the country. Those in the Poetry Group who have had material printed include: Mrs. Grant E. Fisher, Mrs. Carl Wilson, Mrs. C. R. Brenner, Miss Alice M. Sterling, Miss Frances Haydon, H. R. McKinney and Howard Gartrall.

The youngest person in "Who's Who in America" is Shirley Temple.

Industry Heads To Visit Trade School Tonight

Will Discuss Plans For Expanding Program Of Defense Preparation

Heads of New Castle industries tonight will visit the New Castle Trade school, Lutton street, to discuss plans for expanding the program of national defense preparations.

The call to the industrialists, who form the New Castle school system's "industrial advisory council" for its national defense work, was issued by Dr. C. C. Green, superintendent of schools.

A sub-committee of the board of education, whose assignment it was to ready the trade school for next fall, had the East Side shop placed in operation this week in order that unemployed men might learn to master the many machines of industry.

Sixty Men At Work

A 24-hour schedule is now in effect at the trade school building, with a total of 60 men studying the mechanical operations day and night. They are under the supervision of the schools' new vocational education director, Earle M. Cass.

A week ago the advisory group of businessmen was organized at a dinner in the New Castle Field club. That conference was called by the school board sub-committee composed of Board Members C. L. Shira, Dr. C. B. Foster and Robert L. Preston.

Tonight the same group—30 or more—will view the machine shop operations. The group meets at 7:30.

'Y' Campers To Hear Rev. McLean Sunday

Will Speak At Vespers; Fisherman Gets 28-Inch Carp At Camp

(Special To The News)

CAMP FRED L. RENTZ, July 19—Boys and leaders of Camp Rentz are thinking in terms of ceremony at camp these several days before the second week ends. Sunday afternoon the Rev. W. V. McLean of the First Methodist church will preach at the vesper services at 3 o'clock. In the evening, starting around 8:15, the candlelight ceremony will be held at camp. This service was held last year and caused considerable comment and the boys are looking forward to the event again.

Last evening the Bell Telephone Co., presented a program of educational movies which the boys enjoyed very much. Games during the day were played to the limit and the Supermen who were the leaders of the leagues were beaten in both, volley ball and base ball.

Considerable excitement was caused yesterday when a fisherman pulled in a 28-inch carp out of Slippery Rock right above the swimming pool. There was a flurry and almost half the camp were fishing inside of the next half hour. Everyone is well and the weatherman is treating us extraordinarily well.

Honor Court At Scout Camp Is Planned Tonight

Fred L. Rentz To Serve As Honorary Chairman At Evening Program

Tonight at 8 o'clock, Lawrence County's 10 Silver Beaver Scouters will conduct a Court of Honor session at Boy Scout Camp John M. Phillips.

Fred L. Rentz, president of The News, and first to receive a Silver Beaver in the county will preside as honorary chairman of the court. A silver beaver is a highly coveted award, one being presented each year to the scouter having served most faithfully for 10 or more years.

The program tonight will be open to the public and will afford parents and friends of Boy Scouts an opportunity of visiting the camp and see it in actual operation.

Aiding Mr. Rentz will be the following Silver Beavers: Ralph F. Davis., Rev. A. M. Stump, Rev. G. S. Bennett, William Ayers, and L. B. Round of New Castle. Irwin Ropp of New Bedford and Charles Carbeau, Jack Pearson and Nelson Runyan of Ellwood City.

Californian Jailed On Driving Charge

A Los Angeles motorist whose car struck a boy on State street recently was ordered to the county jail today for five days after he pleaded guilty before Alderman Wallace J. Ewing on a charge of operating a car without a license and was unable to pay a $10 fine.

He gave his name as Lee Kessler, 145 South Detroit street, Los Angeles. Acting Chief of Police Ralph A. Criswell, who said Kessler's car would be held until he establishes ownership, placed the driving charge.

News Briefs From City Hall

A shoe merchant Thursday sold a pair of shoes to a stranger for $1.98 and cashed a check for $31.68 and the man who presented check is now being sought by police. The man who presented the check obtained the difference between the cost of the shoes and the amount of the check, hence another warning: "Do not cash checks for strangers."

"I WAS READY TO GIVE UP WHEN I GOT RETONGA"

It Seemed Like Her Health Would Go All To Pieces In Spite Of All She Could Do, Declares Mrs. Treese. Feels Fine Now.

The sensational success of Retonga continues throughout this section as well-known men and women come forward daily to report long-standing cases overcome through this famous new herbal medicine. Among the scores is Mrs. Anna Marie Treese, 1308 Geyer Ave., life-long resident of Pittsburgh, who declares:

"I can tell everybody that Retonga does everything claimed for it. My whole system seemed filled with toxic poisons and acids. My legs felt so sore and painful at times I could scarcely stand it. Acid indigestion kept me in misery and the food I did eat did not seem to give me strength. I was so nervous and restless I could hardly sleep and when morning came I felt worse than ever. I began losing time from work and it seemed like my health would go all to pieces.

"I was about ready to give up when I found Retonga. It stopped my acid indigestion and gave me a grand appetite. My nerves are steady and my strength and energy are restored so that I again work regularly. My friends all say Retonga's help for me was almost like a miracle."

"You see," she said, "I came into the White House before women's suffrage. It has been a habit with me ever since 1915 to let the men do the talking.

"By that I don't mean any reflection on the active wives of men in politics today. We're just on a different era. We have different habits."

Weak Leadership Of French Forces Caused Downfall

a heavy toll of men and machines, yond control when the firemen arrived.

This story, with its implications of lack of foresight, inefficiency, divided counsel and personal political animosities at the very hour the nation's fate was being cast, may seem incredible enough.

But even more incredible was the fact that the high command had not been shaken up severely at the start of the war, or even before hostilities commenced. For it was an open secret among the career men of that army that Gamelin would have to go.

Hoped For Early Shock

That is why a large percentage of the younger element in the active army hoped desperately that the Germans would attack early.

I first heard this amazing wish expressed one night last October by one of the most brilliant young officers of the etat-major of G. Q. G. I knew this officer intimately, having spent a good deal of time with him before the war in both north Africa and France, so he spoke candidly when I asked him how he evaluated the French chances.

"We have a chance if the Germans attack this fall," he said. "But if we go through the winter without fighting, I'm afraid we shall be sunk."

He smiled at my amazement.

"You see," he explained, "we must have a shock very soon. There are several reasons. First we need a shock before we can get rid of our useless generals. We have more than 400 generals in the army and most of them—including M. Gamelin—have passed their usefulness. We are a tradition-bound institution and we shan't be able to get rid of them until we have had a disaster.

Nation Needs Jolt

"The nation needs a jolt too. If we are hit now we perhaps can galvanize our national effort in time. But if we stand still through the winter the old dissensions will continue until it is too late. Furthermore, our troops won't be ready to fight.

"Our soldiers are magnificent. But I know my countrymen. If they don't have action quickly they won't be much good by spring."

I asked what was wrong with Gamelin.

"General Gamelin is just not cut out for commander-in-chief in war time," he said. "He lacks energy and imagination. He doesn't know what modern warfare is. He is far too timid and will hesitate at decisions which mean a cost of life. He is a tired man, a weak man."

He paused, then said:

"General Giraud is the man. There is a general. Politics have kept him back, but when the shock comes, he will be called. Huntzinger, Weygand and possibly George or Pretelat are other possibilities. But Gamelin and the other dodos will have to go, or we are lost."

How correct my friend's prophecy proved! I heard the same thing many times. And especially I heard the name of Giraud, from one end of the army to the other.

But you will recall what happened.

The great General Giraud was kept in command of the seventh army up on the channel until the offensive started. He led his troops into Belgium at dawn on May 10. Then the disaster game at Sedan. The ninth army was broken and the Germans poured across the Meuse.

Too Late! Too Late!

Giraud at that desperate hour was called out of Belgium and given command of the group of armies which was to try to bring order out of chaos. Too late, too late.

The gallant general gambled his life like a common soldier to try to save the impossible situation. He raged along the front in a tank to rally his forces, personally viewed conditions and virtually attempted to stem the enemy advance with his own hands. He was was captured in almost the same place he was taken prisoner in the battle of Guise in 1914.

I spent three days at General Giraud's headquarters in St. Omer in February and I found him to be one of the few senior officers who looked on the situation with fearless, discerning eyes. His cry was for machines and more machines and national discipline. He did not suffer from the Maginot line opiate which seemed to keep so many of the high command in a dream world. He told me at that time:

"The Germany of today is far more dangerous than the Germany of 1914. Unfortunately our nation and the world generally do not seem to realize this. But we will learn when the terrible test comes. And I think you in America will learn, before it is all over.

"I do not think France will be defeated. But it will be long and terrible war before we can win. I repeat—long and terrible."

I had the general's permission to cable this interview at the time, but the censors killed it. The censors hated truth that was even mildly unpalatable.

Could France have won, had men of Giraud's type been placed in command at the start? She might have, had they been able to awaken the nation in time. But that awakening, which didn't come, was the first requisite to victory, for France was like a man asleep or under the influence of drugs. Her fall was the result of the leaders. The troops and the people were brave, but the collapse came at the top. The Girauds and Reynauds might have saved the day, had they been called in time.

(In tomorrow's concluding article I shall try to describe the curious moral paralysis which gripped France.)

Health Big Factor At Girl Scout Camp

Nothing To Be Overlooked At Camp Kiondashawa Along Health Lines

Health is one factor that is to be stressed to the limit this year at Girl Scout Camp Kiondashawa. With the camp scheduled to open officially on August 4, but a few vacancies in the roster remain and girls desiring to attend camp should register at the office in the Greer building as soon as possible.

Each girl must undergo a physical examination before being allowed to go to camp. Mrs. G. F. Falls, camp staff nurse, will be on duty during the two week period, and will check health certificates, weight and general well-being of the Scouts in camp.

Arrangements have been made to have a doctor within calling distance in a case a physician is needed.

Health enters the food program and a professional dietician Miss Eleanor Horner, who last year served in a similar capacity at the Emporium High school, will be a member of the staff. Each of the unit counsellors will also give special consideration as to the health of each member of her group.

To further safeguard the health of the girls, parents and friends have been asked not to send food or candy to the Scouts at camp. Plenty of the proper food, along with sufficient goodies will be provided in the daily menu.

All persons who will handle any of the camp food must undergo and pass a Wasserman test.

Older girls, 14 and 15 years of age, who are attending camp for the first time this year will find the hobby unit interesting with its program of boating, swimming photograph, lifesaving and craft Mrs. Wm. Ward, unit leader, has many new craft ideas, it was learned to be introduced in this older girl unit.

GIRL TELEPHONE EMPLOYEES

The telephone company states that although male operators were used when switchboards were first put into service, it was soon found that the temperaments of men were not suited to such work, so in a comparatively short time they were replaced by girls. Since that time it has been the policy of companies to employ only girls.

Job's Repentance And Restoration

Highlights On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

Job receiving the presents of his friends upon the restoration to prosperity.

"And Jehovah turned the captivity of Job, when he prayed for his friends."—Job 42:10.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for July 21 is Job 42:1-13, the Golden Text being Job 42:10, "And Jehovah turned the captivity of Job, when he prayed for his friends.")

THE LAST chapter of Job, which is the subject of today's lesson, is the happy ending to the story. Because though sorely tempted and tried, Job did not curse his Maker, repented of whatever sins he had committed, and prayed for his friends who had spent days arguing with him, he was made happy and was blessed during the latter part of his life.

The whole book of Job contains such a wealth of fine sayings, that it is well worth careful reading, and many of the passages will be found familiar and many others not so often quoted are worthy to be memorized.

At the beginning of the 38th chapter it is recorded that the Lord spake to Job out of the whirlwind, asking him many questions. You remember in our lesson Job declared his faith in his Redeemer and stated that he would see Him. In this last chapter, the 42nd, he actually talks with his Creator. When he did so he realized his own shortcomings, his complainings at his cruel fate and his insinuations that God was unjust to a man so upright and innocent.

And now, to God's questions, Job answers: "I know that Thou canst do everything, and that no thought can be beholden from Thee.

"Who is he that hideth counsel without knowledge? Therefore have I uttered that I understood not; things too wonderful for me, which I knew not.

"Hear, I beeseech Thee, and I will speak: I will demand of Thee, and declare Thou unto me.

"I have heard of Thee by the hearing of the ear; but now mine eye seeth Thee.

"Wherefore I abhor myself, and repent in dust and ashes."

After this confession, the Lord turned to Job's three friends, who had spent so much time arguing with him that his sons must have brought his troubles upon him, and the Lord said to them—Eliphaz, the Temanite, Bildad the Shuhite and Zophar the Naamathite: "My wrath is kindled against thee: for ye have not spoken of me the thing that is right, as my servant Job hath."

Then He told them they must take seven bullocks and seven rams, and go to Job and offer up a burnt-offering, and Job would pray for them.

"And the Lord turned the captivity of Job, when he prayed for his friends: also the Lord gave Job twice as much as he had before."

Isn't it peculiar how friends and relatives often disappear when one is in trouble—especially when one has lost his property? Many are faithful and true, thank God, but it is surprising how many appear only when one is again prosperous. Thus it was with Job. When he was again wealthy his brothers and sisters and all his acquaintances came to him, and they accepted his hospitality and bemoaned and comforted him; and every man also gave him a piece of money and every one an earring of gold.

"So the Lord blessed Job at last and he had more than he had in the beginning, as many again of sheep, camels, oxen and she asses.

Seven more sons and three daughters who were very beautiful, were born to him. Job lived to be an hundred and forty years old, and saw his sons and his sons' sons, even four generations.

"So Job died, being old, and full of days."

This is the end of the dramatic story of Job, who was sadly afflicted, but lived to be happy and grow old with his family. Faith in God and His goodness, acknowledgement and repentance of his sins, and the fact that he stood Satan's test, brought him through his troubles. Would you and I have the necessary faith and courage to face such trials and come out victorious? We must live daily so as to strengthen our faith and courage.

Garner Silent On Third Term Ticket Named

Vice President Has Nothing To Say On Action Taken By Chicago Convention

By ROBERT A. McGILL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 19. — The "forgotten man" of the Democratic party—Vice President John Nance Garner—today sent out word from his office in the capitol that there could be "no news" from him about President Roosevelt's decision to run on a third term ticket without Garner.

While anti-third term Democrats predicted formation of some sort of an organization to help Republicans in the coming campaign, Garner refused to coment on tne nomination of Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace to take his place as vice-president.

"Cactus Jack," wso usually likes to see reporters and talk and joke with them, barred his door to newspapermen, continuing a silence that may become as famous as the silence of President Roosevelt before the president finally revealed he would run again.

Persistent reporters finally managed to get a telephone connection with Garner's office. Mrs. Garner, who has served as the vice-president's secretary throughout his public life, answered the telephone.

"Mr. Garner has no news,' she said.

That was all.

Yankees Defeat Indians Again

Send Redskins To Second Place As Tigers Defeat Red Sox In Extra-Heats

By PAT ROBINSON
(International News Service Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, July 19.—Red Rolfe, brilliant third baseman of the Yanks, predicted today his club would be in first place within two weeks and from then on "it would be a breeze for the champions."

"The Indians, Tigers and Red Sox seem to have the jitters," said Red, "and once we overhaul them, they'll fold up."

Red himself helped cause a few jitters yesterday as his two singles, double and home run helped put the skids under Al Milnar and the Indians, 9 to 6. And Buddy Rosar helped no little with a homer with three aboard.

After Red and Buddy got through with the Indians, the Yanks were only four games out of first place, and are now set for a late season pennant drive.

Tigers Take Lead

The Tigers moved up into the lead by hammering a quartet of alleged Red Sox pitchers for a 10-8 decision in 11 innings. The Tigers themselves used five throwers who were tapped for 14 hits.

The Senators put over their fifth straight victory by nosing out the White Sox, 5-4, and the Athletics slaughtered a quintet of Brownie throwers for 17 hits and an easy five-hit, 10-3 victory for Johnny Babich. That was the 14th straight defeat for the Browns.

In the only day-light game in the National the Dodgers picked up half a game on the idle Reds by knocking over Bill Lee and the Cubs, 7-4.

The Giants shook off their losing streak with a 6 to 1 night win at Pittsburgh.

Three Lawrence Loop Games Today

Ellwood City takes on Wampum White Sox at Wampum at 5:45 p. m. today. The New Castle Hot Tops will travel to Bessemer and Medusa of Wampum will visit Brent. Ellwood City is heading the Lawrence loop.

COLUMBUS TEAM WIN LOOP GAME

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

At Goshen, Fearless Peter captured the $5,000 Village Farm stake for 3-year-old pacers for his third straight victory.

General John Phelan, chairman of the New York State Boxing Commission, Thursday ordered Promoter Mike Jacobs to withhold the purses of Welterweight Champion Henry Armstrong and Lightweight Champion Lew Jenkins, who fought Wednesday night, pending further orders from the commission. Armstrong, his manager, Eddie Mead, and Jenkins were directed to appear before the commission tomorrow. General Phelan refused to give a reason for ordering the purses held up. Promoter Mike Jacobs said he believed the purses were being held up temporarily by the commission until assurance can be had from Armstrong and Jenkins that they will make their title defenses in this state.

Joe Louis and Henry Armstrong have proved that the man with the punch is the one who draws the fans through the turnstiles....Johnny Dean was incensed by Vince Joyce's chatter when Dean was preparing to fight Steve Morgan. "I'll do my talking with my fists in the ring," Dean told Jack Trammel then proceeded to knock out Morgan, who fought here many times as an amateur.... Rookie Pitcher Ken Raffensberger, when joining the Cubs' training camp last fall, said that Jake Mooty, drafted by the Cubs, was the best right-handed pitcher in the International league last year, but that he was too quiet to attract the attenion of most scouts.

The first professional football game on record was played at Latrobe, Pa., in 1895. Two groups of collegians from Latrobe and Jennette were organized by Dr. Harry A. March. He later formed a pro team in Canton, O., where he died several weeks ago.

Sports World Ramblings

Smoke rings—'Tis strange that some inventions are uncovered accidentally. Baseball's first practical lighting system belongs to that category. It happened in Lynn, Mass., back in 1923. Robert J. Swackhamer of Schenectady, one of the daddies of the owl game, explains that engineers were illuminating a company's athletic field for an opening celebration.

While the men went about their chores, neighborhood kids began to play ball on the field. The tots performed for three nights with the aid of the new high-intensity lighting. The engineers observed that the boys followed the ball with little trouble. Subsequently, the engineers designed a system for a night clash. Some 5,000 persons sat in on the innovation. Thus, started a new sport which annually lures millions of fans throughout the land.

Out of the American Association All-Star game came one of the oddest plays seen in organized ball. The "freak" play came in the eighth with the score tied and the bags loaded. Ab right, Minneapolis swatsmith, slashed a 450-foot hit to the fence; the smash seemed like a sure homer within the park. Two runners scored, but Wright, rounding second, caught up to Lucadello and had to slow up. A relay to the plate enabled Jerry Priddy to tag out both runners for a double play!

Freddy Fitzsimmons, the rotund Brooklyn pitcher, was most effective against Brooklyn. That time existed when Freddy hurled in a New York Giant monkey suit. He bumped off the Daffs 33 times before he jumped into a Dodger suit. ...The Indians were part of an odd incident. Despite the fact that Cleveland dropped four tiffs in a row, the Indians climbed into first place Wednesday!

Typewriter jockeys in the American Association league are putting up quite a squawk. They want league moguls to abolish Saturday night baseball games....In case you're wondering about Newsom's full name, here it is: Louis Norman Newsom, aged 31...A new bonus plan has been originated. And, as you probably guessed, Larry MacPhail is the man behind the swtich. The Dodger bigwig now has decided to cut in the boys for a share of the gate at exhibition tiffs.

Smashing out homers is a pet hobby of Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics. Up to Thursday, the Philly blasters had already upped their crop to the 62 mark. Bob Johnson, who has slammed out 200 during a short span in the big show, leads the pack with 15. Hayes and Sam Chapman are fighting for the second berth with 13 circuit wallops. Incidentally, Chapman has poled 45 homers since 1938.

With the football season approaching, 'tis odd that someone hasn't propositioned Arturo Godoy, Louis' latest victim. Now that the Chilean is out of work, you'd expect one of the colleges to snag him as a line coach. He's qualified to teach gridders how to step fast and how to charge low!...Hugh Sullivan, umpire from the Canadian-American league staff, has quit his post to study for the priesthood.

Crews Defeated By Sonny Horne

Ellwood City Mitt Slinger Drops Close Decision In Farrell, Thursday

Roy Crews, stocky Ellwood City leather pusher, lost a close three-round decision to Sonny Horne, Niles, O., Thursday night at Farrell.

Crews grabbed honors in the opening chukker due, mainly, to a barrage of lefts and a solid right which rocked the Ohioan. Horne came back in the remaining heats to cop the duke. They fought in the 147-pound class.

Other results:

Jim Donavent, Greenville, defeated Ken Call, Cecil, Pa.

Benny DeMartinis, Farrell, decisioned Don Como, No. 5 Mine.

Ozie Peguese, Youngstown, was handed the nod over Al Dundee, Cecil.

Bill Turanyi, Farrell, outpointed George Copp, Youngstown.

Velmont White, Oil City, won over Julius Walt, Cecil.

Billy Murray, Weirton, easily beat Jimmy Smith, Oil City.

Clint Brown, Grove City, scored three-round T. K. O. over Jimmie Scutella, Oil City.

Golf professionals are agreed that the par-busting has been greater this season on the gold-paved circuit than ever before.

The life of a National Hockey League goalie, under fire from the greatest sharp shooters in the game is far from being a happy one. Each year few escape injury as the season goes on.

Head protectors for batters will be tried out at the National Semi-Pro Baseball tournament to be held at Wichita August 16-28.

Indies-Tigers Battle Tonight

League Leaders In Crucial Battles, West Pittsburg Host To Red Sox

Tonight (weather permitting) there are two choice city league ball games for the fans to enjoy. Play tonight will involve all three of the league leaders. Both games start at 5:45 o'clock.

Down at West Pittsburg Manager Danny DeGenova will send his "Gas House" team after their third straight city league second-half win. It will be either Lefty Tonsetic or Dick Powell to face the Red Sox. Paul "Lefty" Minner will go to the hill for the Red Sox, it was intimated.

At the Cedar Street field the Lawrence Indies, first-half champions will take on the West Side Tigers. Both teams have won two and lost none for the second-half to date. Manager Zidow will use either Majocha or Savage on the rubber, and the Tigers have Hank Faller ready for duty on the knoll.

Both are crackerjack games and will no doubt draw large crowds. There is considerable interest being shown in the second-half of the City League.

Score of the 1939 all-star game was 3-1 in favor of the American league players.

Henry And Lew Given Summons

Must Explain Wednesday Night's Fiasco To New York State Boxing Commission

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, July 19.—The pugilistic faithful today convened in their customary nooks and crannies and came to the conclusion that it is impossible nowadays to hold an important fight without an aftermath. In keeping with the trend of the times, welterweight champion Henry Armstrong and lightweight champion Lew Jenkins were to go before the New York State Athletic Commission this afternoon for unrevealed reasons.

The guess was that these two, who battled Wednesday night to a technical knockout victory in six rounds for Armstrong, would be instructed to post forfeits binding them to agreements for making their next title defense against duly qualified opponents in this state.

Want Better Fights

And who will they meet? Frankly, specifically and succintly they will encounter a lot of gents named Eddie, or some such, except for one notable exception. Armstrong may be prevailed upon to defend his welter title against Lou Ambers, who recently was knocked out by Jenkins for the lightweight crown.

Ambers had out-grown the 135-pound division and inasmuch as he had given Armstrong two terrific battles, winning the last, the idea seemed to be that he was the best possible opponent for the little Negro.

As for Jenkins, the best match for him would be with Pete Lello, of Chicago, who is among those who have stopped the lightweight champion. However, Jenkins doesn't have to make a defense until October and probably will be in no rush to accept any challenges following the trouncing he took from Armstrong.

MOOSE DEFEAT RYANTOWN 9 TO 4

The Moose Club defeated Ryantown team last night in a City league game at the Lehigh field 9 to 4. After being held to two hits for the first five innings, the Moose came to life and batted Smith and Herno out of the box and won the game.

Heavy hitting was done by Muse, Guinaugh, and Annerella, for the Moose and N. Robinson for the losers.

Tonight the Moose meet the Elders in a league game at Lockley field at 5:45 o'clock.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

A nice little addition has been added to the corner of Park Avenue and N. Mercer street . . . it is just a small thing but it will mean so much to those who have occasion to use it . . . a small drinking fountain . . . made from stone and a very fine job it is too. It's little things like that that makes the old place look good.

Now that hot weather has set in . . . and probably will be here for a few weeks . . . it is wise to take your exercise carefully . . . don't overdo it. No doubt some of the men around town will use this excuse when their wives say . . . "How about cutting the grass" or "don't you think you could help me fix up the place". But all kidding aside . . . take it easy as you can and don't get overheated and if you do, don't by all means cool down too quickly or drink a lot of ice cold water.

I've shut the door on yesterday—
Its sorrows and mistakes;
I've locked within its gloomy walls
Past failures and heartaches.
And now I throw the key away
To seek another room,
And furnish it with hope and smiles
And every springtime bloom.

No thought shall enter this abode
That has a hint of pain,
And Envy, Malice and Distrust
Shall never entrance gain.
I've shut the door of yesterday
And thrown the key away—
Tomorrow holds no fear for me,
Since I have found today.

And may we call your attention to the classified ad page . . . it really gets results.

Stock Market Marking Time

By LESLIE GOULD
(International News Service Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, July 19.—The stock market continued to mark time today in mixed and sluggish trading, giving no response to the final Democratic ticket of Roosevelt and Wallace.

Activity in a handful of issues lifted volume somewhat above the 22-year low of yesterday, when only 221,640 shares changed hands for the five hours of trading. Turnover in the first hour was 60,000 shares vs. 50,000 shares in the same period Thursday.

Kennecott was one of the more active issues, sales including one block of 3,000 shares at 25. The stock was a shade lower, however, despite news the company for the second day in a row was low bidder for government copper contracts.

Willys-Overland common and preferred, each up fractions, also were prominent on the tape. Utility preferred shares moved up for gains of as much as a point in Electric Power & Light 7 per cent preferred, although common shares in the group held at last night's closings.

Many leaders were unchanged on the day and several relayed their initial sales until the second hour of trading. Bethlehem, for example, opened at 11:15 a. m. at 76 for a loss of one-fourth. U. S. Steel backed and filled over a half-point range throughout the morning.

Sound Tax Program Needed For Defense Work Warns Babson

By ROGER W. BABSON

Copyright—1940—Publishers Financial Bureau

GLOUCESTER, Mass., July 19.—Talk in Washington about a new excess profits tax worries me. Obviously, we cannot spend $14,000,000,000 for defense without raising at least part of the money "as we go." The basic formula however, should be that all new taxes should hit every person's pocketbook to make everyone realize that this country is entering a changed order,—a new era. All should realize that we cannot go on living in the next five years the way we have in the past five.

BABSON

It is unpleasant to say so, but I have seen no indication yet that the average worker, business man, or politician is ready to give up anything for the sake of the new defense program. This thought struck me forcibly during tht past few days here in Gloucester. Each year I spend my birthday in this old colonial city where I was born. This community is the seat of religious freedom in the United States, is a city whose principal livelihood for centuries has been from the sea. I come here each year to "reorient" myself, to view national and world affairs through the perspective of the traditions of my ancestors.

Undermining Individualism

The older, hardy fishermen of Gloucester have no use for the New Deal. Social Security is a snare and a delusion to them. They think WPA and relief are making bums out of the unfortunate. They believe that unreasonable union demands for shorter hours will wreck the United States. They fail to see how these things can help America's defenses. Yet, even here in this cradle of individualism, fundamentals are losing ground year after year. Inefficiency in government, politics in "relief," chain stores and high schools are undermining this city as they are many another.

Viewed in the light of the principles that were taught in this community when I was a boy, the United States is sailing on a dangerous course. The attitude of our people in this new "defense war" seems to be the same as that which destroyed France and which threatens England. France was defeated by New Deal pap, shorter hours, and high costs. Two months have gone by since we suddenly realized that our defenses were vulnerable. Yet, I have found but few people who have any understanding of what we face in the months ahead to provide adequate defense.

Surtaxes Unsound

Congress must be extremely careful in seeking new methods of raising money for our defense program. So far the talk seems to center on "excess profits" taxes. Aside from the practical difficulties of determining "excess profits," this is dangerous for two reasons. First, every person—not just business corporations—must be made to feel the burden of this defense program for the sake of our national spirit. Second, we must not discourage business men. We have plenty of evidence to show that high surtaxes defeat their own purpose. Such taxes do not raise the anticipated revenue; they discourage employers; they penalize expansion, they cripple industrial efficiency. This was our experience in the years from 1920 to 1922.

We must not lose sight of the fact that in addition to our defense program we still have unemployment. If we handle the defense program properly, nearly every "employable" should be able to find a job. However, if we retard the expansion of business and discourage the starting of new businesses by "heads-I-win, tails-you-lose" taxes, we will be missing the boat on creating new jobs. Above all, we must not tax and discourage legitimate business to the extent that the government itself will start messing around with the defense job. The moment it attempts to do this it is "curtains" for democracy in the United States as well as in Europe.

Flat Tax Soundest

Business men and investors will be glad to pay their share of higher taxes to meet the defense program, but congress must not saddle the entire burden on them. Business' job is to make tanks, airplanes, rifles and shells. Its job is not to collect taxes for Uncle Sam! The treasury experts must find new taxes that give business men incentive to work for defense, to expand their plants, to increase employment, and to make America safe from the dictatorships. I believe that the soundest tax—and the best revenue producer—would be a flat, but fair, income tax on every person in the country!

The hope of America today is that we will all get back to the fundamentals on which the growth of this old city of Gloucester was founded, —hard work, self-denial, and independence. Now, more than at any time in the last half century, character—among political leaders, manufacturers, merchants, workers, farmers, everybody—will dictate the security, the progress, and the future of the New World—and the Old!
